

AMBOY AVIATOR BADLY INJURED IN CRASH MONDAY

300 LIVES LOST
IN EARTHQUAKES
IN THE HOLY LAND

Trans-Jordania Suffered Greatest Losses in the Temblor

Cairo, Egypt, July 12.—(AP)—An eye witness, who arrived today by airplane from Trans-Jordania, said 300 persons were believed killed in yesterday's earthquake.

At Maan, Arabia, he said that most of the houses were damaged or had collapsed, while a mosque under construction was seriously damaged.

The movements of the earth lasted forty seconds and were visible in the lava beds, the witness said, describing the effect as terrifying.

Many persons were killed at Amman, Palestine, the witness said, while others were killed at Radd and Ramleh as well as in villages in Trans-Jordania.

While the earthquake was felt in Cairo, no damage was reported.

DAMAGE IN HOLY LAND

Jerusalem, July 12.—(AP)—The earthquake which terrified Jerusalem yesterday and wrought destruction in many parts of Palestine and Trans-Jordania took a considerable toll of lives and caused widespread damage in the Holy Land.

An incomplete casualty list embracing the Jerusalem district placed the dead at twenty-six and the injured at 30, and officials fear reports from the outlying places will increase the death toll.

In Jerusalem the damage was extensive. The dome of Holy Sepulchre church, occupying a site which has been looked upon as sacred for many centuries, was badly cracked. But only one death is recorded in the city proper. Twelve persons were injured.

Caused Great Alarm
The escape of the inhabitants seems largely due to the fact that the shock was not severe enough to bring down the comparatively solid buildings, although cracked walls and ruined interiors are numerous. Nevertheless, the quake caused intense alarm.

Outside the capital, the loss of life undoubtedly was greater owing to the flimsy construction of many dwellings. Ninety houses in Abudis, near Bethany, crumbled.

Unofficial reports say that Nablus near the site of the ancient Samaritan center of Shechem, suffered severely, with 30 persons killed and about 250 injured.

Hotel Collapsed
The collapse of a hotel in Jericho killed three Indian women. Four children were killed when a house fell at Mount of Olives and five women lost their lives at Ain Karim, where, according to tradition, John the Baptist was born.

Latest official reports from Nablus, 45 miles north, give earthquake casualties of 62 dead and 250 injured. At Ramleh, 12 persons were killed and 25 injured, while at Ludd 30 persons were injured.

First Greeting to Army Aviators

San Francisco, July 12.—(AP)—A barrage of noise, the initial sign of a nation's acclaim, greeted Lieutenants Lester J. Maitland and Albert Hegener here today as they came back from their pioneer flight from California to Hawaii.

Whistles, bells and sirens were brought into play as the thousands lining the waterfront and aboard ships in the harbor caught first sight of the liner Maui.

Scores of aircraft dipped and circled in salute as the Maui idled through the Golden Gate.

The Maui was more than two hours late, necessitating a setback in the reception program.

Movie Director Meets
Violent Death in West

Hollywood, Calif., July 12.—(AP)—Police today began an investigation into the apparently violent death of Percival L. Linwood, 49, motion picture employee, found dead in his home with a two inch gash in his head.

Mrs. Linwood, who said her husband was a director, was hysterical.

Detectives reported that the Linwood apartment was in great disorder and that there was evidence that there had been considerable drinking. They declared neighbors had said the Linwood couple had not been seen to leave their apartment in several days.

Mrs. Linwood, who was held for questioning, was unable to tell the detectives the name of the picture company that had employed her husband.

SECURING JURORS
IN BIRGER TRIAL
IS TEDIOUS WORK

However Lawyers Hope to Have Jury by Thursday Eve

Benton, Ill., July 12.—(AP)—With two men conditionally accepted by the state and defense, the trial of Charles Birger, Art Newman and Ray Hyland, southern Illinois gangsters, for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, opened today with a renewal of the tedious effort to select a jury.

Upon the adjournment of court yesterday, the defense had presented a panel of four to the state for questioning. State's Attorney Roy C. Martin today challenged Wm. Platt, one of the four, on the ground that he was unfavorable to the death penalty. The state's attorney then began to question the others.

After conditionally passing a panel of four, State's Attorney Martin turned it over to the defense, which excused one venireman and continued the question in an effort to complete the first panel.

Wife, Child Absent

Mrs. Birger and the gangster's two children were absent from the court room. Birger said they were at a hotel.

Mrs. Newman, blonde wife of Birger's former lieutenant, who is a co-defendant, took a seat among the spectators near the rail. She wore a black dress with a blue tie.

Attendants had dwindled to about three-fourths of the number present on the opening days. Many benches in the back of the room were vacant.

Charles A. Karch, one of Birger's lawyers, said he expected a jury would be chosen by Thursday night.

FLOOD CONTROL IS NATIONAL PROBLEM
BIG BILL DECLARES

Chicago Mayor Tells of Investigations Made by Conference

St. Louis, July 12.—(AP)—The government should treat flood relief along the Mississippi river as a national problem or abandon the Mississippi valley, Mayor Thompson of Chicago, chairman of the recent flood conference told the Mississippi River Commission today. The commission, he added, has two great duties, the immediate one of restoring the levees and then formation of adequate future flood prevention.

The Chicago flood control conference decided, he said, that flood control was the obligation of the federal government and he added that the commission should set up a comprehensive plan of flood control, based upon in formation and observation, and should make such recommendations to congress although the cost should be great. He also asked the commission to include the provision that the sole responsibility of flood control should be borne by the national government.

Would be Sound.
Discussing the possibility that the ultimate cost might be great, he said:

"The expenditure of any sum, even a billion dollars, now would appear to be a sound investment if it resulted in preventing floods."

"The neighborhood policy" of flood control, he maintained, has resulted in middle-class inefficiency and has prevented the adoption of adequate and complete plans for flood control.

The government, from President Coolidge down, has promised its cooperation in solving the flood control problem, he said, adding:

"We have faith in the President and the sincerity of his statement that he is prepared to co-operate with us."

STERLING POLICE CAPTURED
SAFE CRACKER AFTER BATTLE OF PISTOLS MONDAY EVENING

Salesman, Returning from Dixon, Discovered Him Working

Returning to the office of the Sterling Wholesale Grocery Co. from Dixon at about 9:30 o'clock Monday night, Gerald Wallace, salesman for that firm discovered a burglar pounding at the safe in the office as he stepped up to the door to leave the orders which he had taken on his tour of this vicinity.

Without disturbing the burglar, Wallace ran to the corner of First Avenue and Third Street, a block away, where he informed Officers Cross and Bucher of the attempted burglary, and they went at once to the company office where the would-be safe cracker could be seen plainly under the light from the street lamp directly outside.

Without ado the officers opened fire through the plate glass door, to immediately encounter a shower of bullets fired from the roof overhead, where a lookout had been stationed. Officer Bucher immediately rushed across the street and began shooting at the lookout, who turned and ran back across the roof, while Cross broke through the glass door, after the robber had fled back through the warehouse, to get his quarry.

Companion Escaped.
The fellow, who at first gave his name as John Bush of Norfolk, Va., was found hiding beneath a truck in the grocery company's garage at the rear of the warehouse. His companion, who escaped among a string of box cars at the rear of the building, was not found.

He was bound over to the October grand jury by a Sterling Justice of the Peace this morning under bonds of $5,000, and said he did not know his companion's last name, insisting that he had just "picked him up" in Michigan. He said they had arrived in Sterling Monday afternoon in a Buick touring car, on their way to the west, and it is believed his companion made his getaway in the car.

Before being taken to the county jail at Morrison, however, the prisoner said his name was Ervin Butcher. He said his home was in Flint, Mich., his age 25, and admitted being paroled from the Indiana State Reformatory.

Hammond, Ind., July 12.—(AP)—Last to check in at Lansing, Ill., near here, last night, Louis Meister, of Detroit, was named first away today on the next to last leg of the 4,000-mile national reliability air tour.

The thirteen contesting planes flew here late yesterday from Moline, Ill. Eddie Stinson, Detroit veteran, was so far in the lead on points that first honors could be denied him only by a serious accident. He had 9,040.5, with the second man, Marv Mummet, far behind with 7,160.7.

Today's leg led to Grand Rapids, Mich., with the end at 4:30 this afternoon at Detroit after a visit to 27 cities.

Ray Collins, referee, piloted by Lieut. L. J. Green, took off at 9:40 a. m. for Grand Rapids.

BRITISH CRUISER
PROPOSALS STILL
BEFORE EXPERTS

Solution Disarmament Impasse Still Far from Assurance

Geneva, Switzerland, July 12.—

(AP)—Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, a British delegate at the naval conference, called on Hugh Gibson, America's chief representative, today for a further discussion of the new British proposal. This proposal fixes the maximum figure of 400,000 tons for cruisers, but is accompanied by the condition that large size cruisers will be reduced to the minimum number.

It is now understood that the British would hope to keep within the above maximum tonnage up to 1934, or even 1936. They are unable to commit themselves further, however, and even indicate that their building program would probably bring the tonnage up much higher by 1942.

"We are in a bunker; nothing but a niblick can save us," was the golfing metaphor employed today a Japanese member of the committee, which has been charged with going over the British cruiser proposals.

Fear Ltd May Be Off.
The committee worked well into the night trying to approach the problem from some new angle, but finally separated agreeing to have another try today.

While finding a number of conciliatory suggestions in the British proposals, the Americans doubt whether they will really be efficacious in the direction of effective limitation if they only extend only to 1931, as suggested. Such a plan, the Americans believe, entails the possibility that the "lid may be off" after 1931 for a renewed race in cruiser construction.

The atmosphere continued less tense, but apparently a solution of the cruiser deadlock has not yet been discovered. "We are more hopeful than we have been for some time," said one of the younger attaches of one delegation today.

JAPANESE HOPEFUL

Tokyo, Japan, July 12.—(AP)—The belief that the delegates at the naval conference will be able to avoid a breakdown of the discussions was expressed by Admiral Okada, minister of the navy, to the cabinet today.

Sheriff Good of Oregon was also on the lookout and halted the machine in that city, where the parties were held until officers from the Rockford sheriff's office arrived to take them back.

Both Seriously Injured:
Plane Nearly Went Into River

O. R. Bush of Amboy, a student aviator, was very seriously, if not fatally injured Monday evening when an old war time plane, in which he and another student, Edward Hatch of Chicago, were flying, crashed to the ground about two miles southwest of Lomax in Henderson county.

His wife, notified of the accident late last evening and summoned to Lomax at once, was taken to Mendota by friends where she boarded a Burlington train for Burlington, Ia., at midnight.

Served as Deputy.
Mr. Bush was formerly employed as a boiler maker in the Illinois Central shops at Amboy. About two years ago he went to Peoria where he took up flying at a school near that city and had become quite proficient as an aviator. He was quite well known in Dixon having served as a special deputy under ex-sheriff Elliott C. Risley for some time.

Particulars of the accident received here and in Amboy were meager, the following Associated Press dispatch giving the most detailed information obtainable:

Lomax, Ill., July 12.—(AP)—Two student aviators were injured here last evening when a plane piloted by Ed Hatch of Chicago crashed about two miles southwest of here near the Mississippi river. O. R. Bush of Amboy, Ill., also a student aviator, was in the plane and both were injured. Bush the more seriously although such injuries will not prove fatal. Hatch was flying an old war time plane and it was badly wrecked.

The crash tore the running board from the heavier car and badly damaged the machine, but the occupants were uninjured. Byrd's Plane After Plunge Into the Ocean

Heavy waves and crowds of souvenir hunters wrecked the fuselage of the "America" as shown in the upper of these two remarkable photos. The picture was taken at Benton, Ill., at the beginning of his trial. The lower photo of the rocky beach at Ver-sur-Mer, with the "America" in the distance, gives a graphic idea of the spot to which fate directed the ship after she was lost for hours over France in dense fog and rain. These photos were sent to NEA Service on the liner Aquitania. A Chris Craft speedboat traveling at 45 miles an hour brought them into New York from the liner's anchorage at quarantine. From New York they were rushed to The Dixon Telegraph.

Ticket Committee for Chautauqua is Right on the Job

To Residents of Dixon and Community: Forty years ago Dixon's first Chautauqua was held. Not a year has been missed since. The old Assembly Grounds have been no small factor in Dixon's social, cultural and recreational life. Nor is the day past for a high service to the community, by this worthy institution of ours, the Rock River Bible Conference, August 7-14, the noble purposes of this widely known summer retreat spot will continue to be served.

Several hundred Chautauqua tickets for this season were subscribed for, at the close of last year's program, and these are being delivered early this week. Wednesday to Friday, a crop of local solicitors will call at all other Dixon homes with the new season ticket proposition, which has the advantage over past years, in that the tickets are exchangeable within the home for members of the family and guests. Sixty per cent will be saved over single admissions, by the purchase of the season tickets.

Programs and tickets may also be secured at four business centers: Chamber of Commerce, Gelsenberg's Store, Trein's Jewelry, and the T. J. Miller & Sons Music store.

We are proud of this year's well-balanced, six days' program. The Rock River Bible Conference has favored Dixon to a degree even beyond the local management's expectation. We do not hesitate to urge the purchase of season tickets, and attendance at every session. Purchasers will find a real contribution returning.

HISTORIC "ILLINI" PAVILION REOPENED
 New Management Redecorating; Public Invited to Visit Hall

Within a few minutes ride along the scenic Rock River, and in the quaint little old New England town of the West, Grand Detour, one finds a pretty little place called "ILLINI" where the best sodas are made. In fact, it is the new summer home of the chocolate sodas the world talks about—a distinction that is a rightful one.

The historic "Illini" scene of Civil War activities, has been redecorated and is now open for business under a new management.

In the vine-enclosed, canvas-covered villa, or in the "Cherry Blossom Room, or in the fountain room proper or on the spacious lawn, little parties may enjoy delicious sodas or a tasty sandwich. Then if they wish to dance a few minutes, they may use the floor in the "Cherry Blossom Room."

Already several ladies have arranged bridge parties and club meetings there. Some are planning private parties.

Everything is conducted in a refined, pleasing manner. The best of everything is served there.

For a short ride after the theatre and a real soda, one should go to the "Illini" at Grand Detour.

Special public dances and parties are to be announced later.

The management extends this invitation to the readers of The Telegraph to visit the "Illini" just a few miles from Dixon on the Blackhawk Trail at Grand Detour.

AVIATORS SAILING TODAY ON BIGGEST OF U. S. STEAMERS

Chamberlin, Byrd and Companions Leave for Homeland

Southampton, Eng., July 12—(AP)—Carrying back home his long distance air record won on his trans-Atlantic flight to Germany, Clarence D. Chamberlin, accompanied by Mrs. Chamberlin, sailed today aboard the steamship Leviathan.

The steamship left for Cherbourg, where Commander Richard E. Byrd and his three trans-Atlantic companions of the America plan to go aboard with their plane.

Chamberlin's mother cancelled her passage at the last moment because of her desire to remain with her sister, Mrs. George Pilotelle who is ill.

Didn't See Levine.

Charles A. Levine, Chamberlin's companion on the flight, had been expected to make the run from Southampton to Cherbourg on the liner, but changed his mind and went back to London. He missed seeing Chamberlin.

Levine's main object at Southampton appeared to be in connection with an effort to make an arrangement with Frauline Rasche concerning her proposed trans-Atlantic flight but, according to best accounts, she sailed foot free.

Chamberlin said decision as to his future plans would await his arrival home.

Visited Scene of Bad Fire in Milledgeville

On July 3rd the barn and most of the out buildings on the farm owned by Mrs. Anna Dieterle of Milledgeville were destroyed by fire caused presumably by a fire cracker, totaling a loss of about $9000. About $2000 worth of machinery belonging to the tenant, Frank Wetzel, was also burned. The loss was partially covered by insurance. The fire department from Sterling made a quick run to the fire, the distance being about ten miles, and rendered good work in saving the house. The barn was one of the largest in that section of the country and was erected forty-five years ago, at a cost of over $4,000. The lumber used in the construction of the barn was hauled by wagon from Fulton, at a time when the roads were not the best.

George Orgtisen and wife and Mrs. Benard Gast of Dixon motored to Milledgeville Sunday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Wetzel.

Many Improvements in Cemetery Noted

In a recent stroll of an hour through our Dixon Cemetery I was forcibly reminded of the changes that have taken place since my first visit there sixty years ago. At that time there was a four board fence from the gate entrance south for about twenty-five rods, and the wind had blown the sand through it. The sand had accumulated to a depth which permitted one to step over the fence without climbing. There were no flowers in the cemetery, weeds and undergrowth were in evidence all through the grounds. We are often reminded of the improvements of our parks, our building improvements, and push and go ahead in business in general. In fact, Dixon has made long strides in many ways in the last few years, but we seldom hear about the improvements at our cemetery. It never looked so beautiful as it does today. The trees have been trimmed, rubbish removed and avenues improved.

Much credit is due our efficient manager, George Eichenberg and his assistants for these noticeable improvements.

We are hoping for more general interest in the upkeep of our cemetery.

OLD MASTERS

I quake not at the thunder's crack;
I tremble not at news of war;
I swoon not at the news of wrack;
I shrink not at a blazing star;
I fear no loss, I hope no gain,
I envy none, I none disdain;
I see ambition never pleased;
I see some Tantalus starved in store;
I see gold's dropsy seldom eased;
I see old Midas gape for more;
I neither want, nor yet abound—
Enough's a feast, content is crowned.

Menus for the Family

BREAKFAST—Halves of cantaloupe, scrambled eggs with bacon, graham gems, milk coffee.

LUNCHEON—Fish and celery salad, rye bread and butter sandwiches, strawberry surprise, sponge cake, milk tea.

DINNER—Broiled lamb chops, new potatoes in parsley butter, creamed carrots, ginger ale salad, cheese wafers, floating island, milk coffee.

The fish and celery salad is planned to use up any of the halibut that may have been left from the preceding dinner. The secret of a successful fish salad lies in using a decidedly tart dressing for marinating the fish. Care in mixing the salad to prevent crushing the fish flakes is also essential.

Strawberry Surprise

One cup whipping cream, 1 cup marshmallows, 1-2 cup powdered sugar, 2 cups strawberries, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla.

Cut marshmallows in small pieces and combine with strawberries cut in quarters. Let stand on ice for one hour. Whip cream until firm, beat in sugar and vanilla and fold in strawberry mixture. Chill and serve in sherbet glasses.

NEWS of the CHURCHES

CHRISTIAN CHURCH NOTES

This evening the minister's home, 703 Brinton Ave., will be the meeting place for the July Social of the Local Men's Bible class. E. M. Detweiler, pres., and Jas. G. Leach, teacher. Instrumental and vocal numbers by Clinton Fahmney and Margaret Cleaver. "Suggestions on Bible Study," by Prof. M. C. Neer, and a "Travelogue," by A. S. Derr, will make up the program.

Thursday is annual picnic day for the church and Bible school, at Lowell park. Basket dinner at 12:30 in the pavilion. In addition to the food, all coming are requested to hunt up the baseball, horseshoe, bathing beach equipment, etc., and come out for a "real day". The committee on sports has arranged contests for all. Conveyances will leave the church from ten to twelve o'clock.

The Dixon church will be interested to know that efforts are being made to secure the veteran Chinese missionary, Dr. W. E. Macklin, whose bee-hives have gained fame for their stand against the looting soldiers in the sacking of Nanking, when the Doctor and scores of other missionaries were forced to flee. Dr. Macklin's forty-one years in China fit him eminently to speak with the wisdom and sympathy characteristic of the great leaders in the Orient, at this time of turmoil and revolution.

The Bible school's attendance of 213 last Sunday threw "General Summer Slump" and his forces into confusion, and if the attack continues so vigorously a few Sundays, all danger will be over for 1927; although "Slump" is a wily old campaigner, and can quickly re-organize his troops in hot weather.

DIXON'S BIRTHDAY.

In the year 1880 the Dixon Telegraph published a book which relates the history of "Dixon and Palmyra" from 1827 to 1880, and the chronological record with which this history is opened starts its interesting story with the following words:

"In the year 1828, a half-breed named Joseph Ogee built a cabin and established a ferry across Rock river at the present site of Dixon."

That was 100 years ago next year. The 100th anniversary of that important event, the first move in the building of this beautiful city, should be properly recognized and celebrated. Plans should be started this summer for a monster centennial celebration and home-coming week in Dixon during the summer of 1928.

THE WINNING OF THE WEST.

It is interesting to observe with what precision eastern writers are delivering the corn belt to Coolidge merely because he has pitched his summer camp in the Black Hills. With them the thing is no sooner said than done.

The interview of Senator Borah in Idaho in which he said that Coolidge would be nominated and elected is placed alongside that of Senator Moses in New Hampshire, who is said to have been traveling in the west, and that is said to be the end of it.

We who live in the corn belt at no time have seen any possibility of defeat of President Coolidge for the nomination in 1928 if he decided he wanted it. Eastern unanimity combined with presidential power over southern delegates by patronage is sufficient to nominate a president. Nomination can be delivered without the corn belt.

The only question has been whether or not President Coolidge would care to face a campaign with a third term issue proclaimed by the democrats and a third party candidate promoted by the corn belt. That has been the issue from the beginning. That is the issue now.

While it has been clear to us of the corn belt that the president can be nominated, it has not been so clear that his coming to the Black Hills has eliminated the opposition. The president possesses strong support throughout the disturbed and depressed territory and always has. It never has been hard to find his strength, and it should not be mistaken for a change in sentiment, merely because the east only now has discovered it. Its presence is no proof that the opposition has subsided.

We have not observed change in the determined attitude of opponents. The president has been courteously, even enthusiastically received. Any president would be and will be. Democrats have joined with republicans in official courtesies, but that is no evidence that they will mark the republican ballot in November. That the president has touched the sparsely settled state of South Dakota we may be sure, but South Dakota is not the corn belt. It is only an edge of it. There is about as much corn in the Bad Lands as there is at Herrin, Ill., and both have achieved notoriety for the same kind of products.

As an eastern newspaper that has ridiculed the west and its demands, the Philadelphia Public Ledger comes closer to the facts than some of the others. It says that the one cloud on the horizon is the shadow of Lowden, neither very large nor very menacing, but hanging over the corn belt, and adds:

"The summer, however, is young. Much may happen that will be reflected this winter in congress. McNary-Haugenism is by no means dead, but there is talk of compromise legislation that will outrage neither the east nor the west. The drift toward the man who is fishing up and down Squaw creek is felt as far east as the banks of the Wabash and as far west as the Bitter Roots.

"The Coolidge caravan, with its tents pitched in the Black Hills, has made progress. However, its business was to soothe the fever and fret out of the northwest and the midlands the summer will not be too long for the job. The old enmity of the west against east that traces back through Bryanism to the grasshopper days and the greenback party is the greatest obstacle in the Coolidge way."

DON'T FLY—WRITE.

Grover Cleveland Bergdoll says he'd like to fly back to the United States. However, Lindbergh says it is not so easy to fly from Europe to America as from America to Europe. . . . Mr. Bergdoll probably will find flying even harder now than it was ten years ago. . . . Maybe if Mr. Bergdoll would apply to the American Legion convention this fall he'd find many willing to give him a little more instruction in the rudiments of flying. . . . Congress could strike a special medal for the intrepid airman and he could have great fun comparing his badges and exploits with Doc Cook.

An organization has been formed in Washington to try to persuade the country to stop kidding Congress. We're ready to quit—if Congress is.

Maybe one of the reasons why so many marriages fail is that the bride never gets used to boiled onions.

THE ANIMATES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

Poor Clowny was an awful sight. Of course his head was quite all right, but both his body and his legs were like a chimpanzee. This funny fix just made him frown. Said he, "I'd rather be a clown, although this tickles all of you and makes you laugh in glee."

The other Tinsles piled his tail, but that turned out to be no avail. They wished to tease poor Clowny, but he only laughed and said, "Oh, shucks, go on and have your fun. I don't know why this trick was done, but if I wait, I think that I will be a clown instead."

Up spoke the Princess, very quick. "Why, I'm the one who turned that trick. I thought that I'd surprise you, and I hope that you're not mad." "Oh, no! Of course not," Clowny said. "I'm glad you didn't change my head. And now if I can be a clown again, I'll sure be glad."

The Princess answered, "Just stand still. I guess that you have had your fill of looking like a monkey, so I'll change your looks once more." She waved her queer wand to and fro, and then she said, "I told you so." And Clowny was a clown again, which brought forth quite a roar.

"You had us scared," wee Scouty sighed. "You bet you did," the others cried. "Why, you're just like magicians that we've seen upon the stage. We feared that Clowny'd always be an awful looking chimpanzee. And, if he were, just think, they'd probably keep him in a cage."

Then Carpy broke right in and cried, "I need some food in my inside. I wish I had some popcorn, nice and hot, to keep me warm." The Princess waved her wand again. The air was filled with white, and then the Tinsles found that they were caught right in a popcorn storm.

to pass her by. "Faith? Bob?" Her voice was a faint whisper, and one tiny hand fluttered upward from her breast, then dropped heavily, unable to support its own weight. "Didn't die," she gasped, a grin tugging feebly at the corners of her ashen mouth. "Fooled 'em."

Faith dropped to her knees beside the bed, cradling Cherry's limp hand against her own warm neck. "You are going to be all right, darling. Brave, wonderful little Cherry!"

The special nurse, Miss Savage, whose broad, gentle bespectacled face, belied her name, had risen from her chair beside Cherry's bed, a fleetly wrapped little white bundle cradled in her arms.

"Look—at what I did!" Cherry's faint voice became a little stronger with pride, as her tired eyes moved slowly to take in the nurse and the bundle. "Wanted—a girl. Wouldn't know how—to dress—a boy."

Faith laughed through her tears as she stooped around the bed, Bob's hand in hers, for the first sight of Cherry's baby.

"It's a fine little girl. Not quite five yowls, but she makes up in quality what she lacks in quantity." Miss Savage smiled, as she gently lifted the fold of blanket which covered the midjet face. "Oh, Cherry! Oh, Bob! She has hair just like Cherry's!" Faith breathed ecstatically. "Isn't she darling? Oh, I want to hold her!" And with Cherry and Bob looking on, smiling at her, Bob with tears in his eyes, Cherry with a new light of mother-love dawning in her wan face, Faith took her niece and held the small bundle to her heart. The tiny eyelids, in the rose-red little face, fluttered uncertainly, then a pair of astonishingly large brown eyes gazed dimly upward.

"She has eyes just like yours, darling," Bob, hovering over them as if he were the father, pointed out exultingly.

"Isn't she—adorable?" Cherry gasped, and Faith, tearing her gaze from the miracle in her arms, saw that her sister's eyes were filled with tears and that a faint flush of pride and happiness had stained the death-like pallor of her cheeks.

Bob went to her then, bending over her to lay his lips gently against her forehead. Cherry's hand went up weakly, passed uncertainly over the crisp waves of her chestnut hair, then dropped limply to the counterpane.

"Sweet old Bob!" she gasped. "You'll—let us—stay?"

"Stay? Of course, you blessed little idiot! I'd like to see you try to leave and take my niece with you!" Bob scolded her, his voice husky with tears.

And while Faith stood at the foot of the bed, Cherry's baby cradled in her arms, she saw her husband lay his lips upon her sister's quivering mouth, saw Cherry's hands, electrified, rise to clasp Bob's face and to hold it against hers. For a brief moment, in which she seemed to be spinning dizzily, her heart was pierced by the rapture of jealousy. Then Cherry's baby suddenly stretched itself in a comically thorough yawn. It was then that Faith's passion for Cherry's child sprang full-grown into her heart, driving out, for the moment at least, ever torturing doubt of her sister and her husband.

TOMORROW—Faith, the nurse.

SAINT and SINNER

But when she was actually in Cherry's room in the hospital, all thought of Cherry's baby was for the moment wiped out of Faith's mind. She had eyes only for Cherry, and it was Bob's warning pressure on her arm that prevented her from running to the bed and crying out her dismay and love. For the Cherry that lay, so tiny under the smooth white counterpane, would have wrung tears from the eyes of her worst enemy. SPORTS OF ALL SORTS DIXON CUBS WIN LONG GAME FROM STERLING SUNDAY

Pushed Over Two Runs in Twelfth Inning
to Cop, 10 to 8

The Dixon Cubs won a hard game from the Twin City Greys at Sterling Sunday afternoon, pushing over two runs in the twelfth inning to cop, 10 to 8.

The Cubs were leading 7 to 3 until the last half of the ninth inning when the Greys started a rally that tied the score. The bases were loaded and Stevenson, the Greys' pitcher, sent a hot liner to center field, clearing the bases. A couple of hard smacks and a couple of bobbles gave the Cubs two runs in the twelfth inning.

The Cubs got away to a flying start aided by errors by the Sterling team and scored two runs in the first, one in the second and third innings. Three more runs came in during the "lucky seventh." In the eleventh the Cubs got a run but the Greys again tied up the score, and with the winning run on third and but one out, they were unable to bring that tally home. The lineup:

Greys—P. Grove, 2b; Warner, 2b; Warner, 2b; Elmsasser, cf; Wright, 1b; Stebens, 3b; Emmons, 1b; Jacobs, rf; Logan, rf; Stevenson, p; Hart, ss; Grove, ss; E. Logan, c.

Dixon Cubs—Scott, 3b; J. Miller, cf; Henry, ss; C. Scott, rf; Skelton, 1b; Lange, 1b; Kelly, 2b; Phalen, c; McClinton, p; Prestegard, p.

Harris and Barrett in Thievery Stunts to Capture Games

(BY THE AP)
Base running won games in the American league yesterday. Bucky Harris, leader of Washington, stole home in the tenth against Cleveland, the Senators taking their sixth straight from the Indians, 3-2. Barrett's thievery in the ninth won for the White Sox against Boston, 7-1.

With the score tied, he singled, stole second, went to third when the catcher's throw rolled to the outfield, and came home while Flagstad juggled the ball.

The Athletics hopped on Van Gilder for 14 hits and made it three out of four from St. Louis. Ty Cobb got three hits, including a home run.

There was little activity in the National league. St. Louis gained a half game on the Cubs and Pirates who were idle. Alexander held Philadelphia to four hits, whitewashing them 7 to 0. The Cubs were rained out at Boston. Other teams were not scheduled.

NOTES—
Metzler, Sox star, narrowly escaped a collision with the wall in center field in making a sensational catch of Carlyle's long fly, depriving him of an extra base hit for probably a home run.

Hack Wilson, of the Cubs, may be out of the game for a few days. He is suffering from a wrenched side.

DIXON BOYS AND GIRLS CLUBS ARE BEST IN COUNTY

Prof. J. N. Weiss Praised by Farm Bureau for Fine Work

(By Lee Co. Farm Bureau)
Boys' and Girls' Clubs under the supervision of Prof. John N. Weiss, teacher of Vocational Agriculture in the Dixon High School, have made the biggest strides of all the clubs in the county. Mr. Weiss has an exceptional group of boys, in sow and litter, pure bred gilts, fat barrows, dairy helpers and poultry clubs. The types of livestock which these boys are raising, and records kept on feed and labor, are outstanding and come from some of the best herds in the country.

The Dixon district will show the result of club work in the very near future, and this good type of livestock which is bred by the boys is distributed throughout the farms of the vicinity of Dixon. Many of the club pigs which the boys started out with two years ago have been the foundation of the pure bred pigs upon the farms of the boys' fathers. Mr. Weiss deserves a great deal of credit for pushing the work to a successful end in the vicinity of Dixon, doing a great deal for the farmers of that community by introducing a better class of livestock into the district.

The following is a list of the boys and girls entered in the various clubs under the supervision of Mr. Weiss:

Neighborhood merchants who feel that they are not getting their share of a growing community's business might take a lesson from Chicago, where the trade territory has been greatly enlarged by the creation of a new shopping district outside the main downtown trade territory.

This was done by merchants of the central uptown district, who formed an association to get their share of Chicago business by creating an advertising fund of $50,000 a year for three years.

Their argument, briefly, is this: "The downtown Loop advertisers are the competitors of the business men in our territory; and the large daily papers are the media through which buyers are attracted to the Loop places of business, amusement, refreshment. Obviously, therefore, these same media would be our most effective means to reach the same people upon the same subject, and at the same time when they are being interested by the Loop establishments."

They want to stimulate more general daytime buying. They propose to show the district residents that it is to their advantage to transact their business with local institutions. They plan to bring residents from closely adjacent residential territory.

It all sounds like the average American city's effort to increase the retail trade territory. The campaign is going to be waged through the Chicago daily newspapers, the newspapers of the North Side, and through painted bulletins in selected, strategic locations.

Ambassador's Daughter is Bride

A diplomatic romance culminated in London the other day with the marriage of Miss Matilda Houghton, daughter of the American ambassador to England, Alanson B. Houghton, to Chandler F. Anderson, Jr., New York banker. Anderson was confidential secretary to Ambassador Houghton.

Renee and Her Hubby

Here are some more Hollywood newbies—Renee Adoree and William Sherman Gill, former New York broker, now a Los Angeles merchant. Each has been married before. Renee Adoree to Tom Moore and Mr. Gill to Mrs. Evelyn Fariss Bennett, former film actress.

Here Rosebud is dancing to Yellow Robe's two-toms. She will appear on Broadway next fall in her interpretations of Indian dances. She is a great grandniece of Sitting Bull.

HERE'S HOW

"I have such a dreadful time with my children every night. I can't get them to undress for bed. They just won't."
"Mine used to be the same way. But that's a thing of the past now."
"What in the world did you do?"
"I taught them to play strip poker."—Judge.

GOOD SCOTCH

A little Scotch boy, having become an uncle at the age of 4, was taken to see the new baby. "What's he saying, Sandy?" asked his sister as the infant made the usual gurgling noises.
Sandy glanced warily about the room, then replied: "She's sayin', 'Give Sandy an apple.'—Pathfinder.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Attempts have been made on the life of ELISE MARREY, an American girl owning considerable property near the little town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil. Several mysterious deaths have occurred, but so far she has escaped harm, due to the shrewdness of her cousin and protector, VILAK, a curious mixture of American and Oriental blood and a student of criminology.

Vilak has been trying to persuade Elise to leave Porto Verde, letting him stay behind with his friend, LINCOLN NUNNALLY, an elderly American chemist, to solve the mystery. She finally agrees, but her departure is prevented by threat of floods. Messengers ride through the countryside, warning the natives. Vilak suggests they go to the house of CALYDOR PRENTISS, a recluse and a forbidding man and an enemy of Elise's, whom she suspects of a knowledge of the conspiracy against her. She agrees it is their duty.

Vilak learns the flood warning is a ruse to get Prentiss out of his house and so informs him. The party is besieged by an armed force in a stone tower next to Prentiss' house. Vilak disperses the enemy by dynamiting a dam and causing a real flood. When the water recedes they discover Prentiss is gone.

The next day, TINKY, Elise's two-year-old orphaned nephew, is kidnapped for the second time. A native reports Prentiss has been seen with a baby. The trail leads into the jungle and, with native trackers, they pursue. Calamity overtakes them. Their natives are hurt or desert and two of their white friends are fever victims.

Elise, Vilak and Nunnally finally emerge from the jungle. On the outskirts of a strange city that looks like the ruins of ancient civilization, they are overcome by gas. When they awake they find themselves prisoners of CARLOS D'ALBENTARA, whom they knew as an engineer in Porto Verde. D'Albentara leads the two men into the presence of the city's strange ruler.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY CHAPTER XL

It was the figure of an enormously fat, half-breed negro, with thick grinning lips, and fat, not unkind face. On his huge shilling breast hung a row of Spanish dollars, on his head was one of the steel helmets which Pizarro's men had worn during the conquest. The helmet was now ornamented by a row of tall purple feathers.

His fat ears had been pierced and in them had been inserted two golden suns of beautiful workmanship, like the carvings on the stones overhead, modeled in the form of conventionalized human faces. These had so distended the cartilage of the ears that tea-cups could have been put into the orifices without difficulty.

Around his fat legs were two pieces of old Spanish armor, obviously constructed for some cavalier of Madrid or Toledo half his size, for his puffy flesh bulged out in great rolls where the guards ended and the steel breastplate began.

A bearded breech-clout completed his fantastic costume. Fires were burning in two stone braziers on either side of him. These he turned to stir now and then with a short decorated wand of metal he held in his hand.

"Lovely old boy, isn't he?" Vilak whispered to the chemist. "He's a perfect study in primitive religions. Spanish relics, Inca ritual and ornaments, and African superstition all beautifully jumbled together. I think I heard one of the guards whispering his name, and if it was even that mixed Spanish and Indian. Undoubtedly though, he thinks he's Manco Capac or one of the other famous old Inca emperors come to life."

FRANKLIN GROVE NEWS NOTES

Thursday, June 16, at 7 o'clock a. m. in the Trinity Episcopal Church at 6th Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa., occurred the marriage of Miss Harriet Sheep, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Sheep, of this place, to Mr. Edward Everett Wainright. The strictest simplicity was observed throughout. The couple were unattended. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Percy Camerer, rector of Trinity church, and was witnessed by only fourteen of the bride's nearest friends, who have been associated with her in Pittsburgh. After a wedding breakfast at the Fort Pitt Hotel, the pair departed for a hiking trip to Cook's Forest in northern Pennsylvania. The bride's gown was of white satin trimmed with pearls, Spanish lace and a large ornamental flower of satin. In imitation of the wedding dress of her grandmother, Harriet Brink Sheep, this gown was made all by hand and by the bride herself. She carried a huge bouquet of field daisies and ferns. Her going away outfit was a chic tan hiking suit with tweed hat and soft shoes to match. Miss Sheep was a graduate of the local high school class of 1904. She was also a graduate of the Northern Illinois State Teachers' College at DeKalb, class of 1913. She was a public school teacher in Illinois and Missouri for ten years, her last position in that work being in the city of St. Joseph, Mo. For the past eight years she has been in the service of the government. In 1919 she went to Washington, D. C. to serve in the Bureau of War Risk Insurance. In 1920-21 she was an instructor to illiterate soldiers in the army at Camp Jackson, S. C. Since the organization of the Veterans' Bureau, she has been in its employ at Atlanta, Ga., Denver, Colo., and Pittsburgh, Pa. Mr. Wainright is secretary-treasurer of the D. R. Davis Construction Co. of Johnstown, Pa. He is a graduate of Beaver Methodist College, Beaver, Pa. He is a 32nd degree Mason, a Shriner and an Elk. He comes from an old Pennsylvania family and is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution. This wedding was the culmination of a romance involving two walking enthusiasts. The bride had resolved that she would not marry a man until he could and was perfectly willing to walk twenty miles. Mr. Wainright is such an enthusiast on that subject that he has five times in the past winter walked forty-four miles in a single day. They have several times the past year taken twenty mile hikes together. He has to his credit the following long cross country hikes: Buffalo to Cleveland, 210 miles; Niagara Falls to Pittsburgh, 240 miles; Buffalo to New York, 434 miles. Mrs. Wainright has climbed Pike's Peak twice and also climbed Long's Peak in Estes Park, Colo., and Mt. Evans, both of which are higher than Pike's Peak. Mr. and Mrs. Wainright make it a rule never to accept a ride while on a walking trip and boast of the exceptional good health which never requires the service of a physician. Mrs. Wainright has a host of friends in this

An Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE by PAUL ADAMS

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is chapter 82 of the series of articles written by an ex-soldier who is re-visiting France as a correspondent for The Telegraph.

CHAPTER LXXXII

To the soldiers of the 28th and 77th American Divisions there was a region in the Argonne forest that was known to them in September, 1918, as La Viergette.

It was at a point in this region, which is on the road from Binerville to Apremont and not far from the only other road that traverses the forest, known as "Haute Chevauche" (Hochaco-vochee) that the two divisions met and united to push the Germans out at Grand Pre. So much for the association.

Scared by War.

La Viergette is "The Little Virgin," a tiny image of white marble not over ten inches high that stands on a pedestal under the trees somewhat back from the road. The statuette was placed there more than one hundred years ago by devout peasants of Apremont. Thus that region of the forest obtained its name.

Tiny as it is, however, it did not escape untouched during the Argonne drive. One machine gun bullet clipped off some folds of the white robe at the waist, another severed a finger and perhaps a dozen others were imbedded in the pedestal.

But, after the armistice had been signed, when the villagers of Apremont, came up for the first time, they found their shrine, with its scars, just as they had remembered it from the days four years before—before the Germans came in. And in a simple ceremony of gratitude, the little group knelt at the wayside, under the trees, and offered a prayer.

So All May See.

La Viergette is at the point of the roads in the Argonne where members of the American Legion may see it when they arrive in September. It still bears the marks of bullets—perhaps German—perhaps American.

All along the roads the peasants are piling wood that is being cut. But the pile, at a certain point, takes a deep dip. It is at the point where La Viergette stands. And the dip in the pile is made so all who pass may see, and bow their heads in reverence.
